

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

HAVING, while engaged in gathering materials for a genealogy of the Bergen family, procured much information relating to others of the early settlers of Long Island, at the request of some members of the VAN BRUNT family, I have been induced to put in shape and prepare for publication a genealogy of said family. There are gaps in the work, which from the lack of information and time I am unable to fill, branches of the family having removed and become scattered over the middle and western states of this Union, consequently difficult of access. It is to be hoped that this effort of mine will induce some one or more of the members of the family to take an interest in the matter, and make more full and complete what I have begun. As time progresses, old papers and records by accidental and other causes are destroyed and lost—knowledge which our ancestors possessed passes away; and this will continue to be the case in the future, unless the present generation make efforts to prevent it by gathering up and recording this knowledge, and by multiplying their records for the information and benefit of posterity. The contents of these pages are derived from family and church records, old papers, tomb-stones, public documents, and the early history of the country. They are intended to be accurate and reliable; but in a work of this kind errors are apt to creep in, and no doubt have crept in, in spite of all efforts to prevent it. Their imperfection is therefore admitted, and forgiveness and pardon asked for all unintentional errors and omissions.

To the members of the family and others who have kindly allowed the examination of their records and papers, and afforded me the information they could gather or possessed, I would return my sincere thanks.

As a general thing the genealogy of the family is intended to be carried out to the year 1862, to which date researches were made.

First Generation.

RUTGER¹ JOESTEN VAN BRUNT, or Rutger the son of Joost or George, the common ancestor of the VAN BRUNT family in this country, emigrated from the Netherlands in 1653, and was among the first settlers in New Utrecht, on Long Island in the present state of New York, in 1657. From whence the name is derived is involved in uncertainty, there being no place in the Netherlands named Brunt, the nearest approach being "Bruntinge, a hamlet in the province of Drenthe, three-fourths of an hour's travel south of Westerbork, containing seven houses and fifty inhabitants." The Honorable H. C. Murphy, while U. S. Minister at the Hague, on diligent inquiry and examination of the directories of the principal cities, failed to find a single individual of the name in the country. He, however, obtained a copy of an arithmetic published by J. Brunt, of which five editions had been issued, the title of the third being "continuation of the rudiments of arithmetic, composed in questions and answers for the use of schools, by Jan Brunt, in his lifetime schoolmaster at Leyden, by M. & S. Bevel, master in the liberal arts, and doctor in philosophy, printed in 1824 at Leyden." From Jan Brunt not having the prefix of Van to his name, it may be inferred that Brunt is a proper surname, and not derived from the place from which Rutger Joesten emigrated.

RUTGER JOESTEN was an agriculturist, holding large tracts of land, and one of the most influential citizens of the newly begun village of New Utrecht where he continued to reside until his death which occurred prior to 1713, the exact date not having been ascertained. He died intestate leaving his grandson NICHOLAS² his heir-at-law. Dec. 19th, 1721, letters of administration were granted by Governor Burnet on his personal estate, to Joost,¹ his son, NICHOLAS¹ being dead and CORNELIUS¹ having renounced his right. By a deed dated Aug. 8th, 1717, recorded in the office of the register of Kings county in liber D, page 153, of Conveyances, it appears that at this date a division was made of RUTGER JOESTEN'S real estate. On the settlement of the village of New Utrecht, RUTGER JOESTEN was allotted a double lot lying on the east side of land of Thomas Jansen, and on the west side of Jan Gerritse, being in breadth 48 rods, and in length 600 rods, containing 48 morgen (about 100 acres); also a double house or building lot in the village, lying east of the lot of Nicasius de Sille, and west of Cornelis Beeckman, in breadth 20 rods, in length 30 rods, on which he erected his dwelling house, one of the first three built in the village. Afterwards on the further division of the common lands of the town he obtained several other large plots, among which were two lots known as numbers 11 and 12, at the Yellow Hook, now Bay Ridge, described as lying by the "fontein," at present the homestead farms held by Rulif and Daniel Van Brunt, his descendants, and he also purchased several tracts.*

*Among the conveyances to Rutger Joesten are found the following: Willem Willemsse Van Engen to Rutger Joesten, dated May 9th, 1661; conveys a lot in New Utrecht with house, barn and valey, being lot No. 16, bounded E. by Gerrit de Mof, and on the W. by the purchaser, for the sum of 650 guilders in good strong wampum. Thomas Jansen (Van Dyck) to Rutger Joesten, dated Oct. 23, 1677; conveys a patent from the director Gen. Petrus Stuyvesant to Thomas Jansen, dated Dec. 26, 1661, for land in N. Utrecht, bounded on the N. W. side of Rutger Joesten, on the S. E. of Tennis Idesse, stretching N. E. a little Easterly in length 600 rods (7350 ft.), in breadth 24 rods (294ft.), contains 24 morgen (48 acres); a piece in the meadow No. 14, in size 2 morgen and 160 rods; a house plot on the N. W. side of Claus Claessen (Smit), on the S. E. side of the cross road, in breadth 12 rods, in length 25 rods. Hanse Harmansen (Van Barkeloo) to Rut Joesten, da. April 4, 1685; conveys a plot in N. Utrecht in rear of the house plot of John Kiersen, Cryn Janssen (Van Materen), and Daniel Voorvele, in size between 4 and 5 morgen, known by the name of "comp" (field). Hanse Harmanson (Van Barkeloo) to Rut Joesten da. Apl. 4, 1685; conveys a parcel of woodland lying in the rear of the old lots of Jan Kiersen, in breadth 48 rods (588 ft.), in length to the end of New Utrecht patent. Jan Kiersen to Rut Joesten, da. Apl. 4, 1685; conveys a building plot in N. Utrecht, E. of the church plot, W. of the way (road) on which Rut's building plot lays, in size as enclosed in fence. Samuel Spicer of Gravesend to Rutt Joeste, da. Oct. 20, 1685; conveys all his interest in the two rights of commonage or woodland unland out adjoining unto Utrick, Flatbush and Flaland, and is lying upon North side of Gravesend, belonging unto the two lotments Nos. 31 and 36, for £25. This purchase was immediately assigned to Cornelis and Joost, sons of Rutger Joesten. Achias Van Dyck of Brooklyn, Jan Van Dyck of N. Utrecht, Carl Van Dyck of New Utrecht, Pieter Staets of Brooklyn, Arie Bennet of Brooklyn, children and heirs of Jan Thomasse Van Dyck to Rutger Joesten, dated May 25, 1695; conveys two half lots lying in N. Utrecht, between the lands of Jan Van Cleef and Rutger Joesten, containing about 25 morgen (46 acres). This was the old farm of Jan Thomasse adjoining the house plots, sold at public auction Jan. 5, 1695, for which Rutger Joesten paid 2500gl. Peter and Jaques Cortelyou to Rutt Joesten, da. Dec. 3d, 1696; conveys a corner of land lying on the S. W. side of the road leading to the hills (from village of N. Utrecht to Ft. Hamilton and Bay Ridge), in size as in fence.

On the 6th of February, 1660, the director general Petrus Stuyvesant with the fiscael (attorney general) Nicasius de Sille, visited the village of New Utrecht, on which occasion he admonished the residents each to erect a suitable dwelling, to keep a man-servant able to bear arms, and also to inclose the village with good heavy palisades. On this occasion the inhabitants had the Prince's flag (given to the town by the fiscael) hoisted on a high pole in the centre of the village and unfurled to the breeze; and RUTGER JOESTEN assisted by his neighbors prepared a public entertainment or dinner in as good a style as the place could afford, at which the director general and fiscael were guests. During the troubles in 1663 and the beginning of 1664, and prior to the English conquest of New Netherlands, when the towns of Hempstead, Jamaica, Newtown, Oysterbay and Gravesend (whose settlers were mostly English), entered into a "combination," as they termed it, to manage their own affairs, but in reality to throw off the Dutch yoke and join the English, and employed Capt. John Scott (a bold and unprincipled adventurer who had been banished by the Parliament from England for his misdeeds), to manage their affairs and fight their battles — the valiant captain at the head of his 150 followers, after marching to Brooklyn ferry, Flatbush and other localities, and frightening the peaceable farmers with his antics and warlike display, marched into the quiet village of New Utrecht. There, among other singular feats he dismounted the small cannon in the block-house erected for defense against the Indians, and then remounted it in another port-hole which he called the King's port and fired a salute. At the house of RUTGER JOESTEN, one of his valiant band, an Englishman from Hempstead plains, a smith by trade, came along making considerable noise and uproar, inquiring for Matthys Pickstaert, threatening to run Tryntie Claes, RUTGER JOESTEN's wife, through with a sword which he held in his hand, and pointed three different times at her breast, calling out, Where is the man? so that eventually all the Englishmen came into her house and stilled the fury, and relieved her of the dread and peril in which she was placed. On the establishment of a court of schepens (justices of the peace) in the town of New Utrecht on the 22d of Dec., 1661, Jan Tomasse (Van Dyck), Rutger Joesten, and Jacob Hellekers (Swart) were appointed to the office, which position Rutger Joesten held in 1665, and probably during the intermediate years. In 1678, 1679, 1680, and 1685 he was one of the opzienders (overseers), the principal magistrates of the place, an office established in 1665, after the conquest of the New Netherlands by the English. It is probable he held this office for a much longer period, the records being very meagre and imperfect. In 1675, Rutger Joesten was assessed for 1 poll, 5 horses, 4 cows, 18 sheep, and 1 hog, valued at £144 10s., and 72 morgen of land and valley valued at £144. In 1683 he was assessed 2 polls, 200 acres of land, 8 horses and 24 cows. In 1693 he was assessed for 2 slaves, 100 acres of land, 4 horses, 12 cattle, 5 house plots, 1 house, 1 barn, 1 mill and 1 brewery. On a census of 1698 he is entered, 1 man, 1 woman and 5 slaves.

He married 1st in 1657, Tryntje Claes or Claesen, widow of Stoffel Harmenson, cloth shearer, who was killed by the Indians in the attack of 1655, leaving surviving a son at the time twelve years old.* Tryntje was born about 1618, and living as late as 1688, in which year there is an entry on the church books of her paying 12 guilders to the church fund. He married 2d Gretian who was probably living in 1721, RUTGER JOESTEN'S estate being allowed at that time two women's places in the church.

* The following is a copy of the minutes of the orphan's court of New Amsterdam, which throws light on this subject: "Whereas Tryntje Clasen, wid. of the deceased Stoffel Harmensen, cloth shearer, killed in the year 1655 in the attack of the Indians, intends to enter again the married state with Rut. Joesten van Brant, bachelor, and a little stepson about 12 years old is left by the above named Tryntje Claesen and Stoffel Harmensen, and it appears by the will of said Stoffel Harmensen dated 10th July, 1649, executed at Amsterdam before the notary Indrieq van der Vin and certain witnesses, and exhibited to the worshipful Orphan Masters of this city that the said little boy should receive the just half of his father's goods and effects; and it is accordingly necessary that examination and proof be made of the said child's just share by impartial persons, either by pertinent inventory or estimate of the estate left by said Stoffel Harmensen; Therefore have the worshipful Orphan Masters requested and commissioned as their worships hereby do, Messrs. Johannis Neffus, and Jaques Cortelyou as guardians and tutors over the said minor child, after examination of the estate, means and effects which have been left, to agree with the said Tryntje Clasen about the child's just share, and then to make the same known here at the orphan chamber, and to secure the same by mortgage on the lands or other real estate, so that the aforesaid child may obtain his just paternal share.

loan officer of the county, and in 1791 one of the commissioners to rebuild the court house in the town of Flatbush.

The Lombardy poplar being introduced into the country about this period, Col. Van Brunt propagated them in nurseries, and planted more than a mile of the frontage of his farm on the road leading from New Utrecht to Gravesend, and also both sides of the lane leading to his dwelling house, with the young trees, placing them 12 feet apart, intending when of sufficient size to use them as a substitute for fence posts. The experiment on being tried, when the trees had arrived at a sufficient size after his death, proved a failure, the sap oozing out of the holes cut in the sides of the trees to admit the insertion of the rails, together with the dampness, caused the inserted end of the rails in a short time to decay, and the rail to drop or be easily displaced by cattle. These steeple-shaped trees which some years ago gave this road a picturesque appearance, have about all disappeared.

At the time when these trees were young, the apprentices of Col. James Cropsey, a master carpenter, commonly known as Boss Cropsey, a resident of the locality in New Utrecht known as Unionville, on returning at night from a ball in the village of Gravesend, out of mischief broke down several of the young poplars. Col. Van Brunt on discovering the damage next day, knowing of the ball and ascertaining who were present, soon divined who had done the mischief. Calling upon Boss Cropsey, he informed him of his suspicions; on which the Boss took a singular method to ferret out the culprits. He went into the shop where his apprentices were at work, and proceeded to make a bat in their presence, they having spied the colonel, looking upon his actions with distrust. On completing the bat, he walked up to one of the most timid, and, without saying a word, commenced whaling him on his bottom; after two or three blows the frightened apprentice roared out, "Oh, stop Bossy, stop Bossy, and I will tell you all about it!" The Boss ceased his blows, and the boy made a full confession, in which the others joined. The offenders having been brought before the colonel, the punishment he meted out to them was to come the next day and pull flax all day, a laborious job. The boys after having performed their penance, said they did not so much mind pulling the flax, as the being compelled at noon by the colonel to come into the house and dine with the family, being at the time overwhelmed with shame for their conduct.

ADRIAN,² b. Nov. 17, 1735; d. Sep. 18, 1785; m. Jan. 12, 1760, Engletie Rapalje, b. Jan. 17, 1741; d. Aug. 23, 1826. Cultivated, owned and resided on a large farm on the south side of the village of New Utrecht, which he inherited from his father, extending from the main street in said village to the bay, now subdivided into the farms of Jeremiah E. and Englebert Lott, that of the heirs of Rutgert A. Van Brunt, the Bath property, that of Wm. G. Verity and of heirs of F. Keymer, and the Benson avenue lots. From 1763, to the end of his life, he was generally a member of the consistory of the Reformed Dutch church of the town. In 1775, at the commencement of the revolution, in which the United States achieved her independence, Adrian Van Brunt was captain of the militia of the town, favoring the separation from Great Britain. It was on the farms of Adrian Van Brunt and that of Isaac Cortelyou, the British, on the morning of the 22d of August, 1776, landed 15,000 men with 40 pieces of cannon, in command of Lord Howe, under cover of the guns of a portion of their fleet, intended to put down the rebellion in the state and colonies, which effort, however, proved to be a signal failure. After the battle of Long Island and the occupation of the island and the city of New York by the British, Adrian with his neighbors, were compelled either to take the oath of allegiance to the king, to leave the country, or suffer the pains and penalties of a refusal. Not being prepared to emigrate, and unwilling to run the risk of suffering and starvation, he and nearly all the farmers of Kings Co., in November, 1776, took the oath and protection, and remained under the British government until the end of the war. On the 13th of June, 1778, Wm. Marrener with Lieut. John Schenck and twenty-eight militia-men from Middletown point, N. J., landed from two boats on New Utrecht beach, and after having called upon their friends, with a portion of their force marched to Flatbush with the intention of making prisoners of Mayor Matthews of N. Y., Miles Sherbrook, Major Moncrieffe and Theophylact Bache. The attempt on the two former failed on account of their absence, but succeeded with the others, and in addition, Capt. Forrest was captured, who were all safely carried off from their beds, marched to the beach, and taken to New Jersey. The British authorities rightly supposed that it was impossible for Marrener's party to have marched to Flatbush in the evening without having been seen by some of the inhabitants. Those who knew of or had seen the party and failed to give the alarm, by law, were guilty of treason. Col. Rutgert Van Brunt, of Gravesend, and his brother Adrian, and Rem Van Pelt and his brother Aert, of New Utrecht, were arrested on the 16th of June, on suspicion, and confined separately in the provost jail in New York. The colonel who had money, managed to bribe the sergeant who had charge so as to obtain a midnight interview with his fellow prisoners, at which it was arranged to deny all knowledge of the affair. When examined separately, they all agreed in their story, and no proof appearing against them, they were discharged. During the war, Adrian appears to have been the leading man in the town, his name appearing at the head of addresses, committees, etc.

One of the balls lodged in the chimney of Mr. John Bennet's house, and three shot had near done damage to Denyse Denyse's house (located near the battery); one narrowly missed the kitchen in which were a number of the family, a second struck his barn, and a third destroyed much of the garden fence opposite the front door of the mansion house.* On the division of her father's estate, to Teuntje was allotted 117 acres in New Utrecht, now the farms of the heirs of John Berry deceased, and of Aaron Lott, also plots of woodland. Deed or agreement, dated Aug. 8th, 1717.

Recorded in Liber D. page 153, etc., in office of Register of County of Kings.

“Samuel Gronendyke of New Utrecht and Mary his wife late widow of Nicholas Van Brunt, who was the eldest son and heir of Rut Joost Van Brunt deceased, and Nicholas Van Brunt, eldest son and heir of the said Nicholas Van Brunt the grandson of the said Rut Joost Van Brunt by Mary now wife of said Samuel Gronendyke; Roeloofe Van Brunt and Jaques Van Brunt two younger sons of said Nicholas, the grandson of said Rut Joost Van Brunt by the said Mary; Hendrick Hendrickson and John Verkerk of the same place guardians of the said Nicholas, Roeloofe, and Jaques Van Brunt, infants; Cornelius Van Brunt one of the younger sons of said Rut Joost Van Brunt; and Roeloofe Verkerk father of the said John Verkerk, and the said Mary wife of said Samuel Gronendyke.

TO

Joost Van Brunt of New Utrecht one other of the younger sons of said Rut. Joost Van Brunt.

Whereas said Cornelius Van Brunt and Joost Van Brunt, without the hindrance of their father were allowed to exchange with the said Roelof Verkerke the aforesaid lots Nos. 8 and 9 for Nos. 1 and 2, by virtue of which exchange they Cornelius and Joost into lots 1 and 2 did enter and were thereof possessed, and the said Cornelius having released his right and title in lots number 1 and 2 unto the said Joost, he the said Joost has continued in possession, and the said Roeloofe Verkerk by virtue of the exchange entered upon and possessed Nos. 8 and 9, and still possesses; and whereas the said Rut Joost Van Brunt, Nicholas Van Brunt his son, and Nicholas Van Brunt his grandson are all since dead, the said Nicholas the son during the lifetime of his father Rut Joost Van Brunt, and the said Samuel Gronendyke has since married the said Mary the wife of said Nicholas the grandson; and whereas lots Nos. 1 and 2 lie adjoining lots 3, 4, and 5, part of the real estate of the said Rut Joost Van Brunt, therefore to end all difficulties the parties ratify and confirm the exchange; agree to divide lots 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, into two equal parts whereof the north-west part should belong to Joost Van Brunt and also whatever part of the real estate of said Rut Joast Van Brunt that is now in possession of said Joost; and the south-east half of the 5 lots to belong to said three infants, Nicholas, Roeloofe and Jaques, also two other lots at Yellow Hook formerly released to said Joost by said Nicholas the grandson, or any other part of the real estate of said Rut Joast Van Brunt now in the possession of said infants; and the said Cornelius Van Brunt to retain all of the real estate of said Rut Joast Van Brunt now in his possession; and the said Roeloof Verkerk to have the said lots 8 and 9; and the said Groenendyke and Mary his wife during her life to have the third part of the estate of the said three infants including what they formerly possessed and what they obtain by this agreement and the last will of Nicholas the grandson of Rut Joast and his Rut Joast's heir at law," etc., etc.

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 are located on the north side of the two rod wide road in New Utrecht, leading from the main road from the village of New Utrecht to Flatbush to Bay Ridge, commonly known as the wood road or Cowenhovens lane, and are now included in and cover the farm of the heirs of Adrian Martense deceased occupied and cultivated by Andrus Monfort, and also cover about one-half of the farm late of the heirs of Johannes Cowenhoven, now owned and occupied by Phebe Cowenhoven his daughter. These lots were among the latest laid out in the town for farming purposes, and were each in breadth 312 feet and in depth about 2200 feet, extending to the Flatbush boundary line, the date when they were laid out is lost, but it was prior to 1692, for at that date by an entry in the town records these parties were in possession of the premises, and the exchange between the Van Brunts and Verkerk had been made.
